Our Lady Star of the Sea Parish

Marblehead, Massachusetts

October 18, 2026
Twenty-ninth Sunday in Ordinary Time

Dear Parishioner of Our Lady Star of the Sea,

Implacable social divergence makes progress in promoting what is right and good in life more than a challenge. This is the life situation behind today's Gospel. The answer of the Lord Jesus to those who had challenged him regarding the payment or less of the census tax to the occupying Romans forces was meant by him to have a meaning well beyond its immediate context: "To Caesar what belongs to Caesar and to God what belongs to God" (cf. Mt 22:15-21). The Pharisees had plotted the occasion, sending their own representatives together with the opposing Herodians' representatives. Together they posed one of the more vexing political questions of the day. They were sure Jesus would necessarily end up deeply offending against one or the other faction. In the end, however, they lose. The Pharisees cannot oppose giving "God what belongs to God" nor can the Herodians object to giving "Caesar what is Caesar's." Jesus bests them both.

What in life does belong to God and what to state? Indeed, it falls to us, using gifts of mind, heart, reason and faith to interpret in the light of the whole Gospel what the "what" might be. What belongs to Caesar? Is it just the coins bearing his image? What is our just duty to society? What are the just responsibilities and limits of civil society and government with regard to our common life? There have been many and varied answers over the centuries. Our own day is not at all settled on the question, as current struggles and innovations regarding the themes of "life," "family," "gender," and "sexuality" well attest these days. What belongs to God? Certainly that which bears God's image: the human person. What about our lives together? Our families? We look to the Gospel to discover the full measure of the dignity of the human person and the inestimable value of family life.

This weekend the Church has just concluded a convocation on the Tenth Anniversary of the Apostolic Exhortation Amoris Laetitia on the life and duty of the family in the world today. We seek to acknowledge and promote the full dignity and respect owed to family life by society in light of the Gospel. Two points may be drawn. The "what" possessed by Caesar is, in fact, only those things we give to him. That is, the responsibility and concern of government are those things, and only those things, that we the people expressly confide to Caesar's, that is, government's care. The pomps and pretences of governments "creating" fundamental rights rather than receiving responsibilities from we who possess those rights inalienably should be unmasked and restrained whenever they rear their head. Moreover, we are to give to God what is God's. The most precious of those realities is life, the heart of relationship, that capacity and destiny we have received from God as a share in his very own love through the incarnation of his Son. The gift of family life exists first in relation to God, not Caesar, for the loves of our lives belong to God in his love. We do not to receive such a precious gift from the hands or machinations of Caesar's economies, power blocks, parties or platforms. That gift of love in all its moments comes to us from God and is to be returned to God in all thanksgiving through the respect and dignity in which we hold each other each and every day. We, then, should take the opportunity to explore the depths and strengths of God's gifts of life, love and relationship and strive to make those treasures more readily available to and understood by our wider society and world.

Confirmation for forty of our High School Freshmen take place this Sunday afternoon. We are privileged to welcome Archbishop Henning to the Parish for this occasion. Please keep the Candidates very much in your prayers.

Asking God's abundant blessings upon you and your loved ones, I am

Yours in the Lord's service,

Msgr. Timothy J. Moran

The Creation Care Corner: Halloween

As we transition from the Season of Creation 2026 to the fall and the celebration of Halloween, our thoughts and actions should be nature-inspired, celebrating the harvest and the natural world.

Here are some suggestions:

- Decorate using natural items such as pumpkins, gourds, colorful leaves, pinecones, and dried flowers from the garden.
- Create Halloween costumes solely from recycled items and make them eco-themed, such as animals, bugs, and native plants.
- Dress up as a group or family representing Mother Nature or the Four Seasons using floral garlands, upcycled gowns, and botanical wreaths.
- Give excess candy to local food banks, homeless shelters, or organizations and support groups that send care packages to the military.
- Compost carved pumpkins, jack-o-lanterns, and even excess candy. Some pumpkins can be used for homemade baked goods and soups. Dried or slightly roasted pumpkin seeds can be used for healthy snacks.

Regardless of the season, walk, run, and ride whenever you can to help save the earth and see something unexpected, like animals, plants, and flowers that you may otherwise miss in the car.

Confirmation

Archbishop Henning will visit our parish today, Sunday, at 2:30, to confirm young people of our parish. Let's pray that the gifts of the Holy Spirit which they will receive in this sacrament today will remain with them throughout their lives so that they will recognize God's call to them at all times and follow it.

On August 5, after his summer vacation at Castel Gandolfo, Pope Leo XIV was back at the Vatican for a talk on the Constitution on the Sacred Liturgy at his General Audience. Taught by the Holy Spirit the Church has always come together in prayer. In the liturgy we hear the scriptures which tell us of Jesus and in the Eucharist his triumph is again made present. In all this Liturgy is not only the Mass but every prayer which the Church addresses to the Father, and Pope St. Paul VI "ardently desired that the Liturgy of the Hours, the Church's daily public prayer, inseparable from the Eucharist, might deeply permeate, enliven, guide and express all Christian prayer, and effectively nourish the spiritual life of the People of God." It is desirable, Pope Leo says, that the Liturgy of the Hours be embraced and lived in everybody's daily lives. "Every week and every day, the Eucharist and the Liturgy of the Hours are the breath of the life of the Church, which makes the Holy Spirit circulate through her Body." As St. Augustine points out, when the Church prays, Jesus prays for us as our Priest; he prays in us as our Head; and he is prayed to us as our God. The Liturgy of the Hours prolongs the light of the Mass throughout our day.

Pope Leo XIV underwent surgery last Tuesday to remove a nodule on his right lung. As I write this on Wednesday, we have learned that the nodule was cancerous. By the time you read this there will be much more information available about the pope's condition and prognosis. Whatever we learn by this weekend, it will be good for us to pray for his health, that he may serve the Church well in time to come.

This week we celebrate the Memorial of Sts. John de Brébeuf and Isaac Jogues, Priests and Martyrs, and their Companions on October 19. They were French Jesuit priests and brothers who were missionaries to the Hurons and Mohawks in the1600's. Collectively known as the North American Martyrs, they were killed on various dates from 1642 to 1649, three in what is now New York and five in Ontario https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Canadian_Martyrs and https://www.ebsco.com/research-starters/religion-and-philosophy/north-american-martyrs/.
There are also several optional memorials: St. Paul of the Cross, founder of the Passionists, on October 20; Pope St. John Paul II on October 22; St. John of Capistrano on October 23; and St. Anthony Mary Claret on October 24.

Have a good week.
